31
32 Continuing the Planning Commission review of off-street parking requirements in the 33 Zoning Ordinance, Community Development Director Cory Snyder presented a comparative 34 table of commercial use parking requirements in Centerville and neighboring cities. The 35 Planning Commission discussed changes recommended by Staff. Regarding Planning 36 Commission "discretion", Commissioner Summerhays emphasized the need to avoid the 37 appearance of capricious or arbitrary decisions. Commissioner Wright commented that 38 aggressive parking requirements can affect landscape and the overall quality of a project. Chair 39 Daly said he believed the Commission needed to be careful going forward regarding parking for 40 permitted or expanded uses in different zones. Commissioner Hayman spoke of the give and 41 take in the process.

42
43 Mr. Snyder said he was aware of a general movement in planning to worry less about 44 parking, particularly in urban areas, with reasoning that the square footage of a building was a 45 better market return for everyone than huge expansive parking lots. He commented that 46 landscaping could play a critical role in the aesthetics and air quality of a community. Mr. Snyder 47 spoke of the idea that parking and spill-out created congestion, and congestion led to slower 48 speeds, traffic calming measures, and better economic activity.

49
50 Commissioner Hayman said she agreed with the sections identified by Staff for change.
51 Mr. Snyder said he would look at generalizing some of the use requirements. The Planning 52 Commission was scheduled to next review Industrial Zone parking requirements. Chair Daly 53 suggested parking requirements related to ADUs should be addressed with ADU provisions.
54 Responding to a question from Commissioner Shegrud, Mr. Snyder said he believed language could be drafted that would allow the Planning Commission to request a parking study with commercial applications if deemed necessary.
